Irving health insurance agent, says millions of people could be removed from Medicaid enrollment because of new policies

IRVING, TEXAS, USA, July 13, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Irving health insurance could be impacted by two major policy changes involving patient eligibility reviews for Medicaid enrollment. It is estimated on a federal spending on health programs for Americans as well as sources of health coverage, adding that millions of people will be removed from Medicaid because of this process. Previously, Medicaid enrollment reached several millions of people last year and soared over the past few years thanks to states stopping eligibility reviews of program enrollees. Those reviews have now restarted in several states.

The CBO has also stated that it expects enrollment to fall. There is no word yet on how this may impact those with Medicaid and health insurance in Irving. But the general belief is it could create a sizable shift in enrollment numbers moving forward. Many people will see a dramatic shift moving forward as they shift to an employer plan to offset the loss of Medicaid.

Rick Thornton, a Irving health insurance agent, said it is important now more than ever for Americans to review what their policy documents state, or have someone review those documents for them, so they know whether or not they'll be impacted by these policy changes. This is important because the CBO also expects an increase in the number of people without health insurance, though most of them will be eligible for subsidized coverage. Time will tell how accurate these estimates are, Thornton said, making it increasingly important for millions of Americans with or without Medicaid to pay attention to what's going on in today's healthcare news.
