With a longer lifespan and often less time building a Nest Egg at a lower wage scale, the stakes for Women are higher in Retirement.

Financial Professionals will tell you that every Retirement Plan is distinct because every Retiree is unique, but Married couples almost always get just one Retirement Plan. That’s not realistic, prudent or productive.

Men and Women often think and feel differently about Money and Retirement.

A unified Retirement Plan makes sense in many ways for a married couple.

But that same plan must also consider the fact that the Woman is likely to survive her husband.

A sustainable Retirement Plan must also represent a couple's different views, needs and longevity.

Since Women, on average, outlive their Spouse, they therefore have a very real monied interest in how long their own retirement income will last once their Spouse dies.

But even now in 2023, Women tend to procrastinate and defer to their Spouse when it comes to working out the details of their money matters and financial future.

Wise advice to Women : Get smart and involved with your Money.

Fraser Allport - 41 Years of Excellence.

Don't punt to the Man.

Get Smart with Your Money and you will have more of it. Start now, because Time is Money.

Nearly every Woman will have sole responsibility for her finances at some stage in her life. Some will choose not to marry. 44% will divorce. Many will be Widowed.

And don't expect your children to bail you out financially, because that's not realistic.

Nor is it even desirable to be at their mercy, and depend on their financial success and largesse.

Job # 1 is your Financial Independence. Carve out your own proactive role to secure your own Financial Future.

Married Women also need to consider their income prospects, weighing the fact that if they're widowed, they'll lose one Social Security check and usually a reduction of their Spouse's pension. The Woman will also usually have to pay more in taxes when they file as an individual.

These aren't the only challenges that make a Woman's participation in her own Financial / Retirement Planning a Must-Do Priority.

And now. Not when their Spouse dies.
