This partnership aims to combine their expertise in designing, customizing, and servicing versatile, high-quality machines.”

Ben Weinrib, CEO of EDDY Pump Corporation

Commenting on the strategic alliance, Ben Weinrib, CEO of EDDY Pump Corporation, said, "We are thrilled to partner with Hawk Excavator, bringing together EDDY Pump's innovative pumping technology and Hawk Excavator's expertise in designing and manufacturing precision-engineered excavator equipment. This will enable our customers across industries to tackle their most demanding projects with improved efficiency and cost-effectiveness. It is a significant step in meeting the industry's evolving demands, aligning with our customer-centric approach."

Arthur McCann, CEO of Hawk Excavator, said, "Customers often face many challenges. These include limited customization, maintenance and repair issues, high operating costs, inadequate technical support, training gaps, compatibility issues, and limited aftermarket parts availability. Such challenges can directly impact customer satisfaction, operational productivity, and profitability. Our partnership's synergy will help address these issues with the right solutions. This, in turn, will create a long-term competitive advantage for both companies. Also, our equipment are compatible with all excavator brands globally, such as Caterpillar, Komatsu, John Deere, Hitachi, Case, Volvo, and more."

EDDY Pump has delivered innovative solutions to customers across industries. This includes the US Navy, marine dredging, heavy construction, oil and gas, and mining. EDDY Pump manufactures patented, durable slurry pumps and dredging equipment for various industries. These products exhibit exceptional performance and can handle abrasive materials effectively. Additionally, the pumps can minimize downtime, reduce maintenance costs, total lifecycle costs, and maximize productivity. The partnership will improve the efficiency of EDDY Pump's products by integrating Hawk's advanced excavator equipment.
