OneBit offers the flexibility to accept cryptocurrency payments exclusively or leverage a pre-configured affiliate program. Website owners can provide online services and set the percentage of deductions for their partners, encouraging the promotion of their website.

With affiliate percentage rewards ranging from 30% to 80%, individuals can now earn a substantial and consistent income by becoming OneBit partners. The OneBit token serves as a stable payment token within the partnership program, providing additional benefits for participants.

To attract investment for their partner service, OneBit has initiated an Airdrop and pre-sale.

Following the completion of the pre-sale, the OneBit token will be listed on the Pancakeswap exchange, with the token's liquidity permanently locked to ensure investor safety and support the affiliate program.

Additionally, OneBit's dedicated team will launch an affiliate program to maintain a stable price for the OneBit token. They will also establish a marketing agency to provide ongoing support for the project, ensuring its success and continuous growth.

OneBit is a pioneering decentralized payment service that enables information sites to accept payments for their products. By connecting to the decentralized network, website owners can seamlessly integrate popular decentralized payment methods and provide a user-friendly payment experience for their customers. With an affiliate program and the OneBit token, individuals can earn a stable income while supporting the project's growth. For more information, visit website.
