Covid-19 scenario:

The Covid-19 outbreak disrupted the supply chain in the food & beverage industry. Moreover, lockdown and strict regulations on social distancing hindered the manufacturing of caps and closures and impacted the procurement of raw materials.

The pandemic presented several challenges such as safety, crisis management, re-forming business models, and other unintended consequences.

The screw closures segment dominated the market growth

By product type, the screw closures segment held the largest share in 2020, accounting for more than one-fifths of the caps and closures market, due to its wide use in beverage cans, canned liquid foods, and pulp fruit drinks. However, the easy-open can end segment is expected to manifest the highest CAGR of 6.9% during the forecast period, due to rise in demand for food & beverage cans with open end for easy accessibility.

The dairy product segment to manifest the highest CAGR through 2030

By application, the dairy product segment is projected to register the highest CAGR of 5.9% during the forecast period. In addition, the segment held the largest share in 2020, contributing to nearly one-fifths of the caps and closures market, due to rise in consumption of dairy products across the globe. The report also includes analysis of segments such as beer, wine, bottled water, carbonated soft drinks, condiments & sauces, and others.
