Cinema Verde is thrilled to announce the launch of an informative new channel on Roku, the world's largest streaming platform! Experience the ultimate eco-cinematic journey from the comfort of your living room! Cinema Verde has gathered a large selection of films from their 14-year film festival catalog, and now this extraordinary selection of more than 200 festival films is available to you, and everyone worldwide, absolutely FREE!

Advertisements on our channel will reach a target-rich consumer audience who place high value on eco-friendly products, services and industry leaders with green initiatives.”

Trish Riley

This means that if you have a Roku device (about $25 at your favorite electronics store) or a Roku TV, you can tune in to watch Cinema Verde films for no additional cost. And whenever you have your TV tuned in to the Cinema Verde Channel, you will be supporting Cinema Verde filmmakers and the work to bring this information to your attention. Cinema Verde has an amazing team dedicated to bringing a wealth of valuable and informative films to citizens worldwide as they work to forge a healthier future, and public support helps to make this happen.

Let Cinema Verde Showcase Your Sustainable Business

This global expansion presents a unique opportunity to reach millions of viewers in support of the mission to educate our planet. Cinema Verde seeks advertisers whose sustainable businesses and environmental organizations whose innovative work can be showcased on this televised channel - they want viewers to value an informative ad stream almost as much as their films.

"Advertisements on our channel will reach a target-rich consumer audience who place value on eco-friendly products, services and industry leaders with green initiatives. With 71.6 million active Roku accounts worldwide, this is an exceptional chance for businesses to promote sustainability efforts while supporting Cinema Verde organization's library of award-winning films," said Trish Riley, director of Cinema Verde. "By becoming an investor or sponsor, businesses will enjoy prominent exposure alongside our curated collection of environmentally focused and factually accurate films, ensuring maximum visibility and engagement.

"Where else can a business reach an international audience with multiple 20-30 second slots of air time for $250/month? And have the chance to boost your sustainability kred, and help a good and honest start up get off the ground? Nowhere! Let's work together to forge a healthier future."
