

Blue Eye Soft and StackNexus Announce Strategic Partnership

Companies Aim to Deliver AI Innovation to Government Clients

GREER, SC, USA, July 12, 2023

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Blue Eye Soft (BES), an award-winning IT and ITES firm, recently announced a strategic partnership with StackNexus, a renowned name in enterprise-grade IT and AI-powered solutions. Their collaboration will focus on developing tools for federal and state governments. Sharing information across their respective teams, StackNexus and BES will promote a culture of learning and cooperation, accelerate innovation and ultimately help the AI community's skill pool grow.

According to Suman Akula, CEO of StackNexus, ethical data and AI practices are a priority for both companies. "Transparency, equity and accountability will be given top priority when it comes to the creation and application of AI technology," he said. "There will be coordinated efforts to overcome biases, advance inclusivity and reduce possible hazards related to AI applications."

Srikanth Kodeboyina, CEO of Blue Eye Soft, added, "Partnering with StackNexus aligns perfectly with our vision to leverage cutting-edge technologies and drive digital transformation. Together, we can harness the power of AI and StackNexus's Salesforce platform to solve complex problems and deliver value to our federal clients in ways previously unimaginable."

StackNexus spokespersons noted BES's industry knowledge and market presence as keys to their alliance. With offices in South Carolina and New Mexico, BES focuses on business intelligence and predictive analytics using artificial intelligence and the cloud. Recently, the company has been focused on the space economy via technology that helps both government and commercial satellite operators protect their assets in space. Earlier this year, they were honored with an Export Achievement Certificate from the U.S. Commercial Service, and Kodeboyina is a recipient of the Innovation Spotlight Award from the Charleston Defense Contractors Association.

Akula said, "This collaboration will push the limits of Salesforce and data analytics and allow us to address the evolving needs of federal agencies in their digital transformation journey." Established in 2017, StackNexus has over 350 global consultants dedicated to delivering end-to-end solutions. The partnership between StackNexus and BES exemplifies their shared commitment to advancing AI technology in conjunction with Salesforce solutions and data analytics for the betterment of the landscape and society. Both organizations are confident this collaboration will pave the way for groundbreaking advancements.

Together, we can harness the power of AI and StackNexus's Salesforce platform to solve complex problems and deliver value to our federal clients in ways previously unimaginable."
