With Xero bank feeds, Statrys' customers can now connect their bank and payment card transactions to Xero to have them automatically imported and categorized into their Xero account, synced daily. This streamlined reconciliation process will save time for small businesses, reduce the risk of error and improve the accuracy of financial reporting.

"We're thrilled to be integrating a bank feed with Xero," said Bertrand Theaud, founder of Statrys. "As a company focused on serving small and medium-sized enterprises, we understand the importance of efficient financial management and the impact it can have on a business's success. This integration is a significant step in achieving that goal, and we're confident that it will help our customers to grow and thrive."

The integration with Xero is part of Statrys' ongoing commitment to expanding its range of services and becoming the most comprehensive cross-border payment solution for small and medium-sized enterprises in the region. With a strong focus on customer service, Statrys is well-positioned to lead the payments industry, providing its customers with the best solutions to help them grow and succeed in their business ventures.

The bank feed integration with Xero is now available to Statrys' small and medium-sized enterprises customers in Hong Kong, Singapore, and the British Virgin Islands.
