"We are absolutely thrilled to be named the Best Places to Work by the Atlanta Business Chronicle for the third year in a row," said Lori Winters, Founder and CEO at Thread. "This incredible achievement is a testament to our steadfast commitment to creating an exceptional workplace where our employees feel inspired, supported, and empowered to reach new heights."

Thread's success is deeply rooted in its commitment to delivering remarkable experiences to its employees and clients alike. The company fosters a culture of continuous learning and professional growth, offering robust training programs, mentorship opportunities, and ongoing development initiatives. Moreover, Thread maintains an Attitude of Gratitude, recognizing and appreciating the contributions of its employees at every level.

"We believe in making a difference in the lives of our employees, clients, and the community, and this award reaffirms our dedication to that mission," added Lori Winters. "We will continue to Make it Better by nurturing an inclusive and supportive work environment where everyone can thrive."

Thread understands the importance of balancing hard work with fun and enjoyment. By embracing a culture of celebration, the company ensures that its employees Have Fun along the way, fostering camaraderie and building strong, collaborative teams. Additionally, Thread encourages all employees to Own It by taking ownership of their roles, driving innovation, and contributing to the company's overall success.

The Best Places to Work award from the Atlanta Business Chronicle recognizes companies that excel in creating extraordinary workplaces through employee-centric policies, benefits, and initiatives. Anonymous surveys completed by employees assess various aspects of company culture, leadership, and overall job satisfaction, making this achievement all the more meaningful.

"We owe our heartfelt gratitude to our incredible employees, whose dedication and passion have made Thread the best it can be," expressed Barb Collins, Director of Marketing. "As we Pursue Growth, we will continue to invest in our people, nurture their talents, and create an environment that empowers them to thrive personally and professionally."

Thread's remarkable growth and success are a testament to its commitment to delivering exceptional human capital management solutions while fostering an environment where employees can truly Deliver Wow. The company's dedication to its core values has attracted top talent and established Thread as a trusted partner in driving organizational success.
