impact on balancing order costs, including shipping fees, and storage expenses.

In the video, Michael Weir, a highly experienced ecommerce seller and Certified in Planning and Inventory Management (CPIM), unravels the complexities of EOQ and its practical applications. He explains how the EOQ formula helps determine the optimal order quantity that minimizes holding costs while considering the expenses associated with placing orders. By striking the right balance between order costs and storage fees, ecommerce sellers can enhance profitability and maintain an efficient inventory flow.

Michael Weir states, "Understanding the economic order quantity is crucial for ecommerce sellers who want to maximize their profits. The EOQ formula serves as a guiding principle to help strike the perfect balance between order costs and storage fees. In this latest Inventory Boss video, we provide a step-by-step breakdown of the EOQ calculation and practical examples to illustrate its significance in inventory management."

Epsilon, LLC is also pleased to announce the launch of the Inventory Boss training course and software system on August 25, 2023. This comprehensive program combines the online inventory management training course with a state-of-the-art software solution, which will teach and implement the best practices of inventory management, allowing ecommerce sellers to excel in inventory management across multiple channels. A subscription to the Inventory Boss training program provides sellers with access to the entire course, complete with spreadsheet examples and a multi-channel inventory management software solution specifically designed for the ecommerce business.

During the initial launch period, Inventory Boss will offer a 30-day trial of the full training course and software solution for $10. After the trial period, sellers can continue their subscription at $99/month, gaining access to a comprehensive inventory management software solution.

Epsilon, LLC and Inventory Boss help ecommerce sellers gain a "best practices" level of competence for managing inventory by providing advanced training and software solutions. Led by Michael Weir, an ecommerce expert with a background in finance and complex litigation, Inventory Boss is currently the only inventory management training course designed specifically for the ecommerce seller.
