evolution and maturation.

In addition to the single, the song received an amazing video clip, which enshrines the band's new formation, with guitarist Burton Car, who was on the recent tour of South America and was hired in the position. The video was shot in Las Vegas, homeland of the Velvet Chains, and directed by Brian Cox (repeating the successful partnership of videos like "Last Drop" and "Can't Win"), who has worked with artists like Bring Me The Horizon, The Used and Hollywood Undead.

Velvet Chains emerged in 2018, and showed their face to the world three years later, with the solid album Icarus, which featured the special participation of Richard Fortus, from Guns N 'Roses, on one of the tracks. The band's incessant work continued with an impressive sequence of singles, which culminated in the EP Morbid Dreams, in 2022. Always looking to expand their musical spectrum, Velvet Chains continues to climb steps in the world rock scene. With "I Am The Ocean", the band proves that there is a lot of rock and roll of the best quality to come.
