About St. Hubert's Animal Welfare Center

With more than 80 years of experience, St. Hubert's Animal Welfare Center has helped animals in need no matter their species, size, or temperament. People-focused, community-based care emphasizes specialized treatment for both animals and their families.

St. Hubert's provides pet food banks, vaccine clinics, and emergency pet boarding to New Jersey communities. Our mission goes beyond shelters. Our merger with the Humane Rescue Alliance in Washington, D.C. makes us the largest provider of animal services in our region.

Through a network of more than 90 sheltering organizations, we have moved more than 20,000 pets from areas of need to places of opportunity through our WayStation program. As part of our Give Back program, we have invested over $350,000 back into our source shelter partners whose communities are often struggling under the weight of pet overpopulation, so they can address the root causes in their own communities.
