/EINPresswire.com/ -- Executives can work long hours, are subject to stress, and may travel extensively. Their physical and emotional health is critical to good decision making, so a comprehensive, proactive health plan is a sound investment. With a focus on prevention, InvestMed takes a proactive approach to executive health and wellness, utilizing diagnostic tests to identify and address potential health concerns.

The wellness of executive employees is essential for many different reasons.

The effort required to recruit, develop, and retain executive talent is extensive. The cost of losing executives or not properly looking after them and their health can be significant, and can include impacts on business results, company culture, and succession planning.

Additionally, key employees are critical to the success of any business. They have dedicated their time and energy over the years to help a business thrive. Their vitality supports the measurable and intangible strengths of any team, which is why it is crucial for them to look after their physical and mental health.

InvestMed provides proactive diagnostic testing to pinpoint and tackle health-related issues, and help executive employees potentially avoid serious illness. Our testing battery is age and sex-specific, and preventative screening tests may include MRI scans, genetic testing, gut bacteria testing, coronary calcium scans, mole mapping for skin cancer, and more.
