Kansas City's Edge of Hell is the oldest operating commercial haunted house in America – keeping the tradition of going to haunted attractions for 49 seasons.

Haunt Hiring Picnic August 2 in Kansas City's Beast Haunted Attraction

We have worked tirelessly throughout the year to craft a truly unforgettable haunted house experience, but it takes a frightening number of people to make an exhilarating experience.”

Amber Arnett Bequeaith, also known as the Queen of Haunts

To ensure the fear factor is dialed up to maximum intensity to create screams and laughter, the haunted attractions seek cast members with unusual talents, such as howling, acrobatics, screaming, or cackling, to be part of their scare actor crew. Aspiring scare actors will undergo a series of fright-inducing challenges to showcase their ability to elicit screams and create unforgettable scare experiences.

The picnic will offer free food and treats for those applying for any of the 300 open positions. Beyond the scare cast, the haunts hire parking lot attendants, ticket handlers, and concession jobs. Job seekers passionate about horror entertainment can apply if they are 16 and older, have two forms of ID, and pass a background test. Just 26 nights from September through mid-November offers a fun way to earn extra income while making new friends and having a great time.

"We have worked tirelessly throughout the year to craft a truly unforgettable haunted house experience, but it takes a frightening number of people to make an exhilarating experience that is up to our top-rated standards," said Amber Arnett Bequeaith, also known as the Queen of Haunts.
