Maker-approver release Statrys

These enhancements are designed to optimize the way businesses manage transfers and foreign exchange (FX), providing a secure, convenient, and scalable solution. Maker-approver simplifies business operations, catering to the evolving needs of companies seeking both practicality and simplicity.

As your business expands, we're here to provide the tools like Maker-approver that make digital finance management smooth and efficient.”

Bertrand Theaud, Founder of Statrys

Recognized for delivering reliable financial solutions, Statrys continues to adapt to meet the changing demands of businesses. The introduction of Maker-approver is a testament to this commitment.

Maker-approver enables businesses to prepare transfers without immediate balance availability, adding a layer of flexibility to their financial planning. This extends to supporting FX transfers during weekends using indicative rates, allowing companies to manage and execute large FX transfers, even on holidays.

One integral component of Maker-approver is the enhanced transfer approval flow. It allows businesses to designate specific roles for initiating and approving transfers, ensuring all activities are appropriately authorized. This enhances security and establishes clear governance over all transfers while also offering a personalized transfer flow that can be tailored to fit individual business needs.

"At Statrys, we are committed to supporting our clients through their growth journey," said Bertrand Theaud, Founder of Statrys. "As your business expands, we're here to provide the tools like Maker-approver that make digital finance management smooth and efficient."

Available today, businesses can start using Maker-approver features by simply logging into the user-friendly Statrys platform.

Statrys continues to focus on delivering financial solutions that enhance business operations' efficiency, security, and adaptability. Explore the convenience of Maker-approver and take a step towards improving your financial management experience.
