POPal - ChatGPT Powered User Story Writer Poised to Revolutionize the Agile Transformation

Free trial version includes web access and Jira Plugin

ATLANTA, GA, USA, August 8, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- AgileMove is thrilled to announce the release of its powerful new user story writing tool POPal for the Agile community. The solution is poised to revolutionize how user requirements are written leveraging Generative AI (ChatGPT). The company launched a free trial version that includes web access and a Jira Plugin.

Automate user story writing with POPal - ChatGPT Powered User Story Writer

POPal is an AI assistant "pal" to the product owner (PO). It will help save hours of a PO's time and avoid any last-minute rushes when preparing for backlog refinement and PI planning. POPal enables POs to create world-class products by dedicating their time for more important things, like collaborating with customers, end users, stakeholders and teams.

"We have been hearing from thought leaders that AI will not replace your job, but those who use it could. So, our timely release of POPal will help product owners and the Agile community equip themselves with the power of AI to keep themselves relevant in the changing landscape," said Sushil Bhattachan, CEO of AgileMove.

POPal simplifies the user story creation process by automatically generating multiple user stories from Epic/Feature descriptions with user story title, story and acceptance criteria. Not only does POPal create user stories from scratch, it also excels in refining existing user story details. By analyzing and reviewing a current user story, POPal transforms it into a well-structured format and identifies the necessary acceptance criteria and test cases.

Bhattachan added, "I am highly passionate about Agile and AI. Hence, my mission is to leverage AI to support organizations in their Agile Transformation journey. POPal is the beginning of our efforts, with more exciting products coming soon."
