About Phil

Phil Stringer's career started when he moved to Greensboro, North Carolina, needing to care for himself and his expenses at a young age. He founded one of the first online arbitrage businesses, buying and selling products through a nationwide network he created. At 17, he was generating six figures with what he had taught himself about sales and marketing.

At 18, Phil started his formal sales career with General Electric. He was named the Top Sales Agent worldwide by the end of his first full year with the company.

Over the last 15 years, Phil has honed his sales, team building, coaching, and business skills, being hired as the COO at one of North Carolina's most successful real estate brokerages. Phil coaches agents across the nation, helping them to achieve their goals by becoming better salespeople.

He possesses the vision and skills needed to take agents to the next level..."

Phil has a passion for music. Singing and leading worship at local churches is one of the things he cherishes most, but his greatest joy is being a father to his three kids, Nora, Hudson, and Mila.
