What is an Opioid Treatment Program Certification (OTP)?

The Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) bestows Opioid Treatment Program (OTP) Certification upon facilities showcasing proficiency in addressing patients with opioid use disorder, adhering to established criteria and standards. The treatment program has undergone comprehensive evaluation and stands validated for offering pragmatic, evidence-based interventions for opioid addiction, as affirmed by this certification.

In their pursuit of SAMHSA certification, OTPs undertake the accreditation process while fulfilling additional prerequisites outlined in the Certification of Opioid Treatment Programs, as detailed in the 42 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) 8. This involves a comprehensive understanding of the statutes, regulations, and guidelines about OTPs and Medications for Opioid Use Disorder (MOUD).

SAMHSA's Division of Pharmacologic

Therapies (DPT) oversees the certification process, operating under the SAMHSA Center for Substance Abuse Treatment (CSAT). It ensures that an Opioid Treatment Program (OTP) aligns with the federal substance use disorder treatment regulations.

The provisions within 42 CFR 8 empower SAMHSA's DPT to focus its oversight efforts on enhancing treatment quality beyond mere regulatory compliance. At the same time, this framework respects the autonomy of states in regulating OTPs. The supervision of OTPs remains a collaborative endeavor involving states, SAMHSA, the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), and the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA). This comprehensive approach underscores the commitment to providing optimal care within a well-regulated treatment environment.
