

Advanced Air Mobility Institute Seeks Award Nominees

Winners to be announced during Women in Emerging Aviation Technologies Awards

CHICAGO, IL, U.S.A., August 14, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In partnership with Women and Drones, the Advanced Air Mobility Institute is pleased to announce a call for nominations for four additional awards that will be presented live at the 7th Annual Women in Emerging Aviation Technologies Awards in Washington, D.C. on October 25, 2023.

Advanced Air Mobility (AAM) is a rapidly emerging sector of the aerospace industry, with the goal of safely and efficiently integrating highly automated aircraft into the National Air Space.

According to Advanced Air Mobility Institute Founder and President Dan Sloat, "It is truly an honor to work in collaboration with Women and Drones to recognize the efforts of AAM advocates. We are looking for the unsung heroes, fresh faces, individuals with bright ideas, and grassroots teams who are pushing the limits of aviation to benefit everyday citizens. We owe these modern pioneers a debt of gratitude and it is our hope these awards will show our appreciation while also inspiring the next generation."

The Advanced Air Mobility Institute is seeking nominations in the following categories:

Unsung Hero – Awarded to a more experienced individual who exemplifies selfless dedication to the advancement of emerging aviation technology. Careful consideration given to ongoing contributions that do not make headlines but are critical to the mission.

Fresh Face – Awarded to an upcoming leader who exemplifies bold enthusiasm to accelerate access to emerging aviation technology. The intent with this award is to acknowledge the importance of youthful advocacy.

Bright Idea – Awarded to an inventor who developed and successfully secured protection of a novel idea as Intellectual Property that shows promise as a widely adopted element of emerging aviation technology.

Grassroots – Awarded to a team who is a known driving force behind increased public awareness and ultimately, public trust. Through original marketing and strategic communications this team is creating new believers.

Nominations for these categories are due no later than 11:59pm Eastern on September 1, 2023.
