

USA Fibroid Centers Brings Hundreds Together to Raise Awareness of Fibroids

Over 200 Attendees Learn About Non-Surgical Treatment Options for Uterine Fibroids

NORTHBROOK, IL, UNITED STATES, August 15, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Northbrook, IL, August 14, 2023— USA Fibroid Centers, a leading provider of non-surgical treatment for uterine fibroids, sponsored a capacity-filled awareness event to shed light on uterine fibroids, a common condition affecting millions of women. The event, "50 Shades of Purple," was held at the Empire Steak House in Midtown Manhattan and drew over 200 attendees, including actor Cynthia Bailey (Real Housewives of Atlanta), TV Celebrity Make-Up Artist Kym Lee King, and actor Malorie Bailey (A Taste of Betrayal).

Many women think a hysterectomy is their only choice - it is critically important to make women aware that there are nonsurgical options like UFE that allow them to keep their uterus.”

Yan Katsnelson, M.D., Founder and CEO of USA Fibroid Centers.

The event featured speakers who shared their personal stories of living with fibroids and experts who discussed the latest research on fibroids and treatment options. Yan Katsnelson, M.D., Founder and CEO of USA Fibroid Centers, delivered the opening remarks. He encouraged the audience to make a difference in fibroid care and spoke on the importance of women knowing that nonsurgical treatment for fibroids is available.

"The reason hysterectomies are overperformed is women needing fibroid treatment are not aware of less drastic, nonsurgical options such as uterine fibroid embolization \(UFE\)," Katsnelson said. "If a woman does not want a hysterectomy, she should not be forced to have one."

The event is part of USA Fibroid Centers' efforts to raise awareness about uterine fibroids, a common health condition affecting 70% to 80% of women. Speakers shared their personal stories of living with fibroids, reminding attendees of the negative impact they can have.

"We need to stand up for women's rights and ensure they have access to the best possible care for fibroids,” Katsnelson emphasized.

The evening began with a discussion on how fibroid pain impacts every aspect of a woman’s mental health and well-being. Women with fibroids are more likely to experience stress, anxiety, depression, and low self-esteem. They may also have difficulty in their relationships, both personal and professional.

Jacob White, M.D., Director of Fibroid Services at USA Fibroid Centers, spoke about the genetic factor of fibroids. He was joined by T.V. reality stars and sisters Cynthia Bailey and Malorie Bailey, who shared their firsthand experiences with fibroids. Fibroid experts Aaron Shiloh, M.D., and Flora Katsnelson, M.D., co-founder of Fibroid Fighters, discussed how fibroids can affect sex and intimacy.

The evening’s entertainment included motivational speaker Keith Brown (Mr. I’m Possible) and R&B sensation Lil’ Mo, whose soulful singing had the audience singing and dancing.

Kym Lee-King was awarded the Fibroid Fighter of the Year Award for her fibroid advocacy work. King, a USA Fibroid Ambassador, hosts a monthly fibroid information program, Talk About “U” – an initiative started by USA Fibroid Centers to encourage women to speak out and share their fibroid journeys.

In addition to USA Fibroid Centers, event sponsors included Merit Medical, Planned Parenthood, Moore Promotions, United GMG, Antenna Satellite, USA Data, AMW PR, El Especialito, ReachTV, and Univision. Sponsor support helps improve treatment, research, and patient advocacy

"Fibroids present a major healthcare problem as the most prevalent pelvic tumors in women of reproductive age and are the leading cause of hysterectomies, " Katsnelson said. "It is critically important to make women aware that there are minimally invasive options."
