NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, August 15, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Costa Rican designer Kevin Rojas closed the designer block of the second day of Costa Rica Fashion Week. On this occasion he presented a collection inspired and dedicated to Daniela Ruiz, Costa Rican transgender activist who passed away earlier this year.

The collection presented impeccable lines and a theme inspired by the drag culture with a unique catwalk set up. On the runway we were honored to be joined by Elton Ilirjani, an international LGBT+ activist, who also participated modeling for other designers at Costa Rica Fashion Week.

Elton stunned in a radiant glamorous fuschia gown designed by award winning designer Kevin Rojas contrasted by Elton's long, blonde locks. Elton commented on Instagram, "This was the best fashion show in CRFW this year and one of the best I have participated in during the past year. I felt like a butterfly, and this is all thanks to Kevin... a fairytale and magical moment. Unforgettable!"

For Kevin this is the third time he has presented at Costa Rica Fashion, the first year he did it as a design student. This year he was presented as the winner of the Istituto Marangoni Miami scholarship to study there and was chosen by the authorities of that institution.
