MIAMI, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, August 16, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- European Flooring, the nation's unrivaled leader in luxury hardwood flooring, is setting a new standard for excellence in high end home design. Their introduction of the year's most impactful finish within their elegant collections of premium quality European hardwood planks has once again proven why they are the top choice for discerning homeowners, interior designers, and architects across the country.

stands the test of time. These types of floors have become the go-to choice this year for designers and architects who understand that true luxury is marked by a harmonious blend of aesthetics and durability.

While natural hues are certainly on the rise lately, the planks' finishes are often infused with man-made artistry. Herringbone and chevron patterns are becoming increasingly popular, and European Flooring is thrilled to showcase these elegant classics within their LaFamiglia and European Elegance collections.

Once favorites of French nobility and still prevalent within chic Parisian interiors, these distinctive designs offer a sense of movement and visual intrigue within any space. They instantly create a sense of grandeur and sophistication synonymous with their historical past.

Amidst these trends toward natural-toned floors and the resurgence of classic patterns, European Flooring distinguishes itself from rivals with supreme quality. Not only do their floors exude authentic European finesse, they're also derived from the continent's highest quality trees to ensure optimal beauty and longevity. Each plank is crafted with a marine-grade Baltic birch plywood substrate core, resulting in outstanding stability and an intrinsic resistance to humidity and moisture. Finally treated without the use of harmful volatile organic compounds (VOCs), their potent adhesives prove that you can have it all: beauty, safety, and uncompromising quality.

The company's in-house installation services ensure that their planks feel just as incredible as they look. Specially trained by the Legno Bastone team, European Flooring's techniques guarantee optimal safety and precision. Designers and architects can rest assured that their projects will be given a strong foundation that sets a sophisticated precedent for the steps that lie ahead.

European Flooring's commitment to providing not just a floor, but an experience, is evident in every plank. The esteemed company makes achieving design excellence a breeze with their award-winning designs, service, and installation.
