“We are excited about the opportunities that lie ahead with ADAR Technologies,” says Jason Zucker. “They are a group of committed problem-solvers, seeking to meet challenges and fill a void in an emerging industry. This is very much in line with GIVE16’s mission.”

ADAR Technologies will be donating a percentage of their proceeds that will benefit the Zucker Family Suite and Broadcast Studio at M Health Fairview Masonic Children's Hospital.

"Carly and I came up with a concept of a space that would help children and their families get a break from the inherent anxiety and stress that comes along with being inpatient," says Zucker, a professional ice hockey player who most recently signed with the Arizona Coyotes after playing two seasons with the Pittsburgh Penguins. "The broadcast studio provides a wide range of programming from music to game shows, celebrity visits and more. Overall, it is a diversion for hospitalized children and their families, allowing them to take a break from the reminders of the health challenges they are facing."
