“It’s an honor to have the opportunity to mentor athletes on and off the field. When I was younger, I was overwhelmed by expectations as an athlete and student,” said Game Changers Founder Rennie Curran. “Our foundation allows athletes to have guidance from former athletes who went through similar obstacles in life.”

The Game Changers Foundation helps athletes from all levels reach their fullest potential in the game of life. This is accomplished through speaking engagements, one-on-one mentoring, leadership events and networking opportunities. In a Big Brother/Big Sister model, the Foundation provides an avenue to create support and guidance for athletes to make a difference in their own lives and those of others.

Rennie Curran was a standout at the University of Georgia as an All-American linebacker before playing in the NFL. Throughout his football career, he depended heavily on his community for guidance both on the field and off the field. Because of his experience, Curran created the Foundation for current and former professional athletes to positively influence and impact their communities by preparing high school athletes for their futures.
