Definition:

Recruitment staffing, often referred to simply as "staffing," is a process involving the acquisition, selection, and deployment of individuals for temporary or permanent positions within organizations. It is a crucial aspect of human resource management and workforce planning, aimed at ensuring that an organization has the right people in the right roles to achieve its goals and objectives. Recruitment staffing can be managed internally by an organization's HR department or outsourced to external recruitment agencies or staffing firms. The choice often depends on factors such as the organization's size, resources, and specific staffing needs.
