SINGAPORE, August 29, 2023
/EINPresswire.com/ -- B&H Worldwide, the award-winning specialist aerospace logistics company, has successfully completed its first engine transportation and storage on behalf of Singapore Airlines.

B&H was recently commissioned by Singapore Airlines, to transport a GE90 engine from Paris Charles de Gaulle Airport to Singapore. The B&H Worldwide team is familiar with the GE90 series engine type and has completed numerous transportation assignments for other airline customers over the years.

B&H took just 3 days to complete the shipment of the 10,700 kg engine, and it is now safely stored within the climate-controlled environment of the B&H warehouse facility at Singapore Changi Airport. Mounted on a specialist engine stand, the engine will be stored until required at a constant 23-24°C and at a humidity level of 64-65%.

“B&H Worldwide has a strong track record in aircraft engine transport and storage for many airlines around the world. Combined with our company’s warehousing and FSL facilities located in strategic aviation hubs we offer a strong value proposition,” says David Wong, Station
