Titan Gilroy, CEO, Titans of CNC

Titan Gilroy is recognized as a national expert in CNC machining and has become the world's largest advocate for the future of manufacturing. Titan began his career in manufacturing when he walked away from his rough past, including prison time, and a professional boxing career and found himself in a CNC machine shop where everything in his life changed. He shared his story on the reality series dedicated to American Manufacturing and in the 3rd season he went to San Quentin Prison and built an Elite CNC Academy. It was because of this experience that Titan developed the Free Titans of CNC Academy Curriculum which is now backed by aerospace companies, and industry partners like Kennametal, Mastercam, and Mitutoyo, and endorsed by over 1,000 industry leading companies including NASA, Northrop, Boeing, Disney and more.

Titan Gilroy will share a message of hope and redemption that the country and world need today. With his expertise in running an elite aerospace CNC shop, Titan offers practical tools and inspiration to students, educators, shop owners, and business leaders around the world. His nationally known experience and business success, partnered with his deep passion for the manufacturing industry, prompted MX2023 to invite him as the featured keynote speaker. "We have the tools we need to rise to manufacturing greatness," said Titan when asked about his reason for attending the event. "We will engage our youth, lift up our shops, and raise our collective skill level to compete globally!"

MX2023 is the only manufacturing trade show of its kind in the region and was established to help industry build local supply chains, exhibit capabilities, and increase business opportunities and new customers.
