It can be argued that one significant contribution to Barrington Levy's longevity is the desire to sample his unique vocal styling and licensing of his songs for various purposes (ie: TV, Film). One such notable reference, was the Netflix Black Western "The Harder They Fall" in which his classic "Here I Come" (Broader Than Broadway) was uniquely arranged for the Film which was well received.

For "Money Is The Drug", Levy once again decided to pull for stalwarts from his earlier work. Songwriter Gary Benson, who is credited with classic songs such as "Don't Throw It All Away" (The Delfonics et al), "Close to You" (Maxi Priest) and "Living Dangerously". Music Producer Handel Tucker who co-produced "Close to You" (Maxi Priest", composer of Beres Hammond's "No Disturb Sign" and keyboardist on Barrington Levy's Classic "Vice Versa Love". Money Is the Drug is written by Benson, Levy and Tucker and Produced and arranged by Handel Tucker. "This team felt right for this track" says Mr. Levy. Fans and newcomers alike are in for a treat as Barrington Levy proves once again why he's a true reggae legend.

"Money Is The Drug" is available on all major platforms with Music Video available on YouTube.
