Introducing Dr. Fred Rouse:

Dr. Fred Rouse, known as 'The REAL Money Doctor,' is a celebrated author, retired Certified Financial Planner, and the nation's leading authority on Short Window Retirement Planning. His journey encompasses a diverse background, including five years in the US Coast Guard during the Vietnam War, a decade as a Registered Respiratory Therapist, and running a tax and business advisory practice as a Certified Financial Planner for nearly three decades.

With a knack for financial strategy, Dr. Rouse turned $5,000 into $2 million in two years but faced setbacks trying to replicate this success. He merged his financial pursuits with a career as an RRT and CFP to pioneer a proprietary financial system that survived the 2008 market crash, consistently outperforming the markets. This system evolved into a course catering to those seeking to control their lives and money with a proactive, duplicatable approach and that want faster financial independence and the option to enjoy their retirement sooner.

Dr. Rouse's insights have garnered recognition in respected publications like The Wall Street Journal, FORBES, Newsweek, and Inc Magazine. He's shared his expertise on major networks including ABC, NBC, CBS, Fox, and CNBC.

Now in retirement, Dr. Rouse, along with his wife Dr. Teri and their dog Gus-Gus, split their time between their Philadelphia suburban home and a bayfront residence in southern Delaware.
