Dayana, the heart behind Relopet International, shares, "It's always been my dream to work with animals, and when my passion for travel logistics aligned with this dream, I knew I had found my calling. I understand the concerns and challenges that pet owners face when relocating their fur babies, and I am here to support them every step of the way."

Relopet International specializes in ensuring the safety and comfort of pets during their journey, with Vancouver International Airport serving as their primary hub. However, the company's reach extends beyond Vancouver, accommodating travel to and from various airports within Canada. Additionally, their global logistics network allows them to provide pet shipping services to most countries worldwide, making them a reliable partner for international pet relocations.

As fellow pet parents, the team at Relopet International fully comprehends the profound bond between individuals and their furry companions. Hence, the safety and well-being of the animals they help relocate remain their top priority. Every pet is treated with the same love, care, and attention that they would receive from their own families. Unparalleled communication is a cornerstone of the Relopet experience. Understanding the potential stress of preparing a fur baby for a long journey, the team keeps clients in the loop every step of the way. They want to ensure that pet owners feel supported and informed throughout the process, allowing them to focus on other aspects of their move.

One of the unique benefits of choosing Relopet International is the time-saving advantage they offer. The intricate details involved in shipping a pet to a different country can be overwhelming. Relopet stays up-to-date with all changes related to shipping animals, relieving clients of the exhaustive research and arrangements. This allows pet owners to focus their energy on other crucial aspects of their relocation, knowing that their beloved pets are in capable and caring hands.
