

FE Masterworks™ Expands Its Studio Scale Ship Line On Star Trek Day

CONCORD, CA, UNITED STATES, September 7, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Factory Entertainment, a leading producer of licensed motion picture and television collectibles, today announced that on Star Trek Day, September 8, 2023, it will be expanding its FE Masterworks™ product line of iconic studio scale spaceships, vehicles and props with the launch of a U.S.S. Enterprise NCC-1701-G, also known as the U.S.S. Titan, as seen in Star Trek: Picard.

Season 3 of Star Trek: Picard, saw the crew of Star Trek: The Next Generation reuniting on the U.S.S. Titan, to battle the mysterious changeling, Vadic, and the Borg Collective. In the season's concluding episode the Titan was rechristened as the U.S.S. Enterprise NCC-1701-G.

FE Masterworks U.S.S. Enterprise NCC-1701-G / U.S.S. Titan

As with all FE Masterworks™ high-end collectibles, this stunning 35-inch-long studio scale ship faithfully recreates what's seen on screen. Featuring lights, sounds and detailing, every ship model in the FE Masterworks™ line is a made to order artisanal work that is hand-built in the United States by veteran modelmakers. This studio scale model will be crafted by renowned visual effect artist John Eblan, who has an extensive history in creating miniatures and props for movies, TV shows and theme parks.

Star Trek collectors can reserve this bespoke $15,000 piece of art now at femasterworks.com, where they can select either ship designation -- the U.S.S. Titan or the U.S.S. Enterprise. Also currently available to order on the FE Masterworks™ website are three other Star Trek studio scale models, which were debuted to much fanfare this past July at San Diego Comic-Con:

- The "refit" U.S.S. Enterprise NCC-1701, as seen in Star Trek: The Motion Picture and Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan;
- The U.S.S. Enterprise NCC-1701-D, featured throughout Star Trek: The Next Generation; and
- The U.S.S. Excelsior, as seen in Star Trek VI: The Undiscovered Country.
