Definition:

An online on-demand home service refers to a platform or app that connects customers with various home services provided by professionals or service providers. These services can range from household repairs, maintenance, cleaning, plumbing, electrical work, gardening, and more. The concept revolves around providing convenience to customers by allowing them to request and schedule services whenever they need them, without the need for lengthy booking processes or prior planning. Popular examples of online on-demand home service platforms include TaskRabbit, Handy, Thumbtack, and UrbanClap (now Urban Company), among others. These platforms have gained popularity due to their convenience, especially for people with busy schedules or those who need immediate assistance with home-related tasks.
