

Unite 23: Top Employee Experience Conference Kicks Off Tomorrow

Employee experience experts gather in London to explore top technologies and industry best practices

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, September 12, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Unily, the award-winning employee experience platform provider, welcomes hundreds of attendees tomorrow and Thursday to its sold-out event, Unite 23. This event brings top enterprise employee experience experts together in London to explore industry best practices with keynotes, deep dive tracks, roundtables, and extensive networking opportunities, as well as an awards program.

“In an era where employee experience is becoming the new frontier of company focus, it’s never been more critical to have an event to share best practices and experiences with the top experts in the field who are using Unily’s award-winning technology to expand and improve employee engagement and alignment,” said Chris Ciauri, CEO, Unily. “Unite 23 is the top conference for employee experience practitioners because it focuses on precisely what companies need most now: a coherent, collaborative canvas that reduces “digital friction” to help drive significant productivity improvements, communications, and clarity throughout an enterprise – no matter how large.”

Research conducted by Unily earlier this year underscores the need for companies to focus on employee communications and experience in an era of quiet quitting. In that research, 64 percent of leaders recognized that employees were becoming increasingly frustrated with outdated intranets, and nearly 50 percent admitted that digital friction was the biggest barrier to internal communications.

“We know the last 10 years were about customer experience; the next 10 will be about employee experience and engagement, and the key to winning is to deploy the technologies and best practices that create an exceptional experience and reduce that digital friction,” Ciauri added. “We’re incredibly excited to highlight and celebrate all of the innovative programs our customers have created with Unily, and showcase these successes with our Unite 23 awards.”

Unite 23: What to Watch

Incredible Speakers

Stephen Fry – Fry’s Future of Work: Setting the tone for the conference, the iconic actor, director, and writer will discuss the big themes shaping the workplaces of the next decades before opening the floor to an interactive Q&A session.□

Grace Beverley – Productivity hacks for your workforce: Grace Beverley, a productivity guru and Gen Z entrepreneur, will deep-dive into her unique ethos and the ways she’s driving work-life balance and engagement for her own employees.□

Steven Bartlett – Employee Engagement Lessons from a CEO: When Steven last appeared at Unite, it was a live studio presentation. The popular Dragon’s Den star, entrepreneur, and podcaster is back live on stage this year to continue the conversation on employee engagement strategies for the modern workforce.

Insight into employee experience transformations□
