Such an incredible opportunity for our company to be in front of millions of people!”

Jim Konkler

Originating from the insights of High School Football Coach Jim Konkler, Swivel Vision was conceived out of a need to help players concentrate better in the game. Jim, along with his lifelong friend Joe Valenti, crafted an initial prototype using ski goggles, a rubber base, and duct tape. The concept was to limit the peripheral and lower vision of athletes, thus training them to use both eyes effectively at all times, enhancing their hand-eye coordination, focus, and reaction speed. Following numerous iterations, a versatile one-size-fits-all design was developed. Today, Swivel Vision stands as a testament to innovation, collaboration, and a deep understanding of athletes' needs.

Notably, Swivel Vision has already gained acclaim on global platforms such as ESPN and has been implemented in training regimens of professional athletes worldwide. The goggles are specifically designed for non-contact practice and are not intended for protective use.

Konkler expressed his excitement about the upcoming feature, stating, "Such an incredible opportunity for our company to be in front of millions of people!"

As Swivel Vision continues its journey to reshape sports training, its feature on Boom America stands as a significant milestone, showcasing the impact of vision-focused training on the athletic community.
