EINPresswire.com/ -- MUNICH - In the heart of the Bavarian capital, the family-owned boutique hotel group KING's Hotels Munich has introduced a fresh work-leisure paradigm: With the innovative Focus Lounge by KING's coworking café as its centrepiece, the group also presents extended-stay accommodations at both KING's Hotel First Class and AdvaStay by KING's.

KING's First Class Hotel Apartment

As the lines between work and leisure become increasingly blurred, KING's Hotels Munich is pioneering a comprehensive experience tailored to the needs of digital nomads, business travellers, and leisure-seekers.

Today's slow travellers demand more than just a room. They're after environments that nurture work & relaxation. With our Focus Lounge coworking café & extended-stay options, we're bridging this gap.”

Hanna King, CEO of KING's Hotels Munich

Hanna King, CEO of KING's Hotels Munich, shed light on this new direction, "Today's slow travellers demand more than just a room. They're after environments that nurture both work and relaxation. With our Focus Lounge coworking café and extended-stay options, we're bridging this gap."

Housed within the flagship KING's Hotel First Class, the Focus Lounge is not just a workplace. It transforms from an elegant coworking café by day to a trendy cocktail bar by night, providing unique social and networking opportunities. It boasts high-speed WiFi, device safekeeping, and a range of healthy snacks and beverages.

Moreover, both KING's Hotel First Class and AdvaStay by KING's now feature extended-stay hotel apartments.

"These accommodations marry the comfort of home with the luxury of boutique hospitality," Ms. King added. Apartments equipped with a private kitchenette, dedicated workstation, cosy living spaces, air conditioning, and access to laundry facilities, offering a premium extended stay in the heart of Munich.
