How Schools Can Dive into this Opportunity

Plan Ahead: Decide on the items you'd like to offer, whether it's spiritwear, uniforms, or other school gear. Remember sports, seasons, and school events to provide relevant products.

Engage the School Community: Involve students, parents, and staff in design suggestions and choosing what merchandise to feature. This helps foster a sense of ownership and excitement.

Promote Early & Often: Use school newsletters, social media, and community channels to create a buzz about your new online store. Regularly highlight new products or limited-time offers on the various platforms.

Sponsorships & Collaborations: Artee encourages schools to partner with local businesses to sponsor products or ad spaces on the webstore, boosting funds and community involvement.

Feedback Loop: Periodically collect feedback to understand what's working and what's not. Based on this feedback, switch up the products you are offering or the strategies you are using to promote the gear.

"Everyone's excited to return to school, to a semblance of normal. This is the opportune moment to harness that enthusiasm for a cause that truly matters," the representative adds. "With our history and reputation as a reliable screen printing company in Miami, FL, schools can trust us to deliver on our promise."
