

RealtyJuggler Real Estate Software offers Sphere of Influence Nurturing Training

FORT COLLINS, COLORADO, USA,
September 18, 2023 /
EINPresswire.com/ -- Today, RealOrganized, Inc. announced the availability of real estate sphere incubation training for RealtyJuggler Real Estate Software. This training provides concrete ways for you to maintain and build relationships with past clients, friends, relatives, neighbors, and business associates.

"Many real estate agents focus on incubating fresh new leads. While fresh leads are important, you will work twice as hard to close a deal with a stranger, then with a friend or past client. By maintaining contact with past clients, you stand a good chance of being their agent when they decide to buy or sell real estate. After all, they already know and trust you." explained Frank Larnerd, RealOrganized, Inc.'s Email Postmaster.

Small gestures go a long way. Send an annual Christmas card in the postal mail. Make a periodic phone call to see how things are going. Send a postcard to geographic farms with a just sold and just listed summary. Wish friends happy birthday or call them on the anniversary of their home purchase. Gently remind potential clients of availability for real estate advice or help. This lighter approach works wonders with clients and leads.

Training is complementary and is one of the numerous benefits that is included with a RealtyJuggler membership or free trial.

RealtyJuggler has an extremely easy-to-use interface as well as training materials such as user manuals and huge library of topic-focused video tutorials. RealtyJuggler Support Engineers are also available for questions via email and phone as well as provide scheduled one-on-one training so that members can learn in the way that is best for them.
