MedTech Suites, a globally recognized FDA and MHRA Medical Device Company, proudly announces its revolutionary therapeutic bedding, PillowSheets. Backed by evidence-based research and receiving a noteworthy endorsement with approval from Medicare, PillowSheets is poised to be the next big thing in patient care.

Pressure ulcers cost the health system $26.8 billion a year on treatment costs for pressure ulcers, according to Martin Burns, CEO of BBI, Bruin Biometrics.

PillowSheets is designed to combat this. With its unique design that uniformly distributes pressure, it considerably alleviates pressure points while ensuring comprehensive body and lumbar support. Its 'elevate' foot pillows further address a critical issue, swelling, and circulation which according to Heathline Elevating your legs can benefit your health in several ways. Some of the key benefits include improved blood flow, reduced inflammation, and lower pressure in the veins in your legs which decreases complications from further comorbidities.

PillowSheets, bearing the unique patent of seamlessly integrating a pillow system within the fitted sheet, eliminates the hazards and inconvenience of loose bedding. This product is not only an innovation but a response to a recognized need in the healthcare community. The brilliance of PillowSheets lies in its patented design, integrating a pillow system within the fitted sheet, eliminating the dangers of loose bedding. "Pressure ulcers have been an age-old concern. PillowSheets, as early trials suggest, is a transformative solution," said Nadia Galloway, the brainchild behind this innovation. PillowSheets product is designed with longevity, safety, and comfort in mind.

A pilot study conducted in select skilled nursing centers, hospitals and care homes showed a 35% reduction in pressure ulcers, and increased reduction in fall risk incidences among bedridden patients using PillowSheets.

"The inspiration behind MedTech Suites was the need to address the pervasive problem of pressure ulcers, and circulatory needs, the primary healthcare risk for patients confined to their beds," shared Nadia Galloway, the visionary inventor and mastermind behind PillowSheets. Marissa Hunt, Dream Operations Officer states Our goal was to focus on improving patient outcomes for the most vulnerable.

From my extensive global experience, I've never witnessed a solution like PillowSheets. It's a game-changer in patient care while addressing pressure ulcers.”
