“

Today marks a new chapter in Hauschild's history. We look forward to continuing to serve our customers around the globe with the authentic Hauschild products and services they have come to trust.”

Fabio Boccola, CEO Hauschild Engineering

“Hauschild is committed to ensuring that consumers receive access to genuine Hauschild parts and service from authorized representatives throughout the world,” says Fabio Boccola, CEO of Hauschild Engineering. “We can now provide our customers with direct support, reinforcing our commitment to quality, reliability, and customer satisfaction,” he continued. “Most laboratories don't know their device is a genuine Hauschild SpeedMixer® purchased between 1996 and May 2020 from the very company inventing centrifuge mixing technology.”

An Easy Process to Verify the Authenticity of a Hauschild

Consumers and laboratories can easily verify if their SpeedMixer is a genuine Hauschild SpeedMixer®. Purchasers will be asked for the purchase date and serial number of their device. Hauschild Engineering – The Original Innovators of Bladeless Centrifugal Technology

For over 50 years, Hauschild Engineering has been at the forefront of innovation in the mixing solutions industry. The company's founder, Gerd-Ulrich Schmidt, invented the core technology behind the Hauschild SpeedMixer® machines, which have since revolutionized countless industries globally.

Manufactured exclusively in Germany, Hauschild SpeedMixer® machines utilize dual asymmetric centrifugal technology, a ground-breaking invention that has set the standard for bladeless mixing. This technology allows for extremely fast, bubble-free compound mixing of materials, delivering unparalleled precision and quality in various applications – from laboratory research to industrial manufacturing.

Guaranteeing Worldwide Supply of Original Hauschild SpeedMixer® Equipment

With the termination of their relationship with FlackTek, Hauschild Engineering is now directly supporting customers in territories previously covered by FlackTek and its affiliates. The company guarantees the worldwide supply of original Hauschild SpeedMixer® equipment, spare
