

Webasto Charging Systems, Inc. Continues to Advance Ground Support Equipment Technology and Capabilities

UNITED STATES, September 26, 2023
/EINPresswire.com/ -- Webasto Charging Systems, Inc. Joins Forces with JBT AeroTech an Oshkosh Corporation Company to Unveil AmpCart Charging Station

In a monumental step towards revolutionizing the ground support equipment (GSE) industry, Webasto Charging Systems, Inc., a subsidiary of Webasto Group, is proud to announce the launch of AmpCart, the latest innovation by JBT AeroTech an Oshkosh Corporation Company. AmpCart is a cutting-edge towable charging station designed to provide unparalleled convenience, enabling electric GSE to access power anywhere on the ramp. Equipped with Webasto's advanced MVS chargers, AmpCart sets a new standard for GSE electrification.

AmpCart features Webasto's state-of-the-art MVS chargers, including the MVS800 charging system. Renowned for its multi-vehicle fast-charging capabilities, the MVS800 boasts multiple charger ports, offering simultaneous charging for up to 12 vehicles, making it a highly efficient and cost-effective solution. This innovation aligns with the industry's commitment to reducing CO2 emissions at airports by providing multiple electric charging points from a single grid input power source.

For a firsthand experience of AmpCart and Webasto's PosiCharge chargers, attendees at the International GSE Expo 2023, held from September 26-28 at the Las Vegas Convention Center, are encouraged to visit JBT AeroTech booth #1522. As industry leaders and stakeholders gather to witness cutting-edge GSE innovations, Webasto and Averest's booth (#2716) will be a hub of interactive experiences and expert insights.

"We invite all attendees to stop by booth #2716 and discuss the future of GSE electrification. Our experts will be on hand to provide detailed demonstrations and answer any questions about our solutions and how they're shaping the industry's future," said Christina Di Sano, Director of Sales, Webasto Charging Systems. "The GSE Expo provides multiple interactive opportunities to witness and experience first-hand the products, equipment and technologies impacting and moving the ground support industry forward."
