

Austin Cosmetic Dentist on Tooth Replacement Options

Dr. Mark Sweeney, a cosmetic dentist and founder of Austin Dental Spa, compares some of the most popular options for replacing missing teeth.

AUSTIN, TEXAS, USA, September 27, 2023

/EINPresswire.com/ -- In the professional opinion of Austin cosmetic dentist Mark Sweeney, DDS, tooth loss can present more than just an aesthetic problem. "Even a single missing tooth can put the entire mouth in jeopardy," Dr. Sweeney explains, adding that the consequences of missing teeth include speech and chewing difficulties, gum disease, and jawbone deterioration. He also mentions that patients can lose teeth in a variety of ways – from trauma or accident to gum disease or untreated cavities. While practicing good oral hygiene can usually prevent tooth loss, the fact remains that teeth often need replacement – and, as Dr. Sweeney notes, modern dentistry has produced a variety of options for this very purpose.

The team at Dr. Sweeney's practice, Austin Dental Spa, frequently works with patients who have lost teeth, and the clinic offers several tooth replacement options to restore patients' oral health. For instance, Dr. Sweeney states that dental implants are an especially sought-after tooth replacement option. These artificial tooth roots are surgically inserted into the jawbone and topped with a dental crown to emulate a tooth in both appearance and function. "Not only do they generally look and feel extremely lifelike," Dr. Sweeney says, "but they can help preserve jawbone health by stimulating the surrounding bone tissue." This stimulation, he adds, can prevent bone loss and maintain the jawbone's strength and density.

While dental implants can be excellent replacements for single or multiple adjacent teeth, implant dentures are often the better choice for replacing entire rows, says Dr. Sweeney. An innovative alternative to traditional (i.e. removable) dentures, implant dentures consist of a full-arch restoration that is secured to the mouth with implanted titanium roots. "As a replacement option for missing teeth, implant dentures hold many advantages over traditional dentures," Dr. Sweeney explains, listing stability, aesthetic quality, and improved comfort as just a few of these benefits.

An experienced dental professional should be able to determine the best replacement after evaluating the patient's jawbone density, lifestyle, and comprehensive oral health."

In conclusion, Dr. Sweeney advises patients with missing teeth to consult a qualified reconstructive dentist. "An experienced dental professional should be able to determine the best replacement after evaluating the patient's jawbone density, lifestyle, and comprehensive oral health," says Dr. Sweeney.
