

Super Fresh Foods Announces Move to Compostable Packaging

Super Fresh Foods has taken a significant step towards reducing its carbon footprint and promoting a healthier planet

LAS VEGAS, NEVADA, UNITED STATES, September 26, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Golden Star Enterprises Ltd. (OTCMARKETS: GSPT) DBA Super Fresh Foods (the "Company"), a popular meal prep and delivery company, is proud to announce its commitment to environmental sustainability by transitioning to the use of compostable containers for all its meal deliveries.

"Our customers are not only looking for delicious and nutritious meals but also seeking ways to make environmentally responsible choices."

Benny Doro

In response to the growing global concern for environmental conservation, Super Fresh Foods has taken a significant step towards reducing its carbon footprint and promoting a healthier planet. By replacing traditional plastic and non-recyclable containers with compostable alternatives, the company aims to play a crucial role in minimizing the environmental impact of food delivery services.

Compostable containers are made from renewable resources and are designed to break down naturally, returning nutrients to the soil and reducing the burden on landfills. This transition aligns Super Fresh Foods' core values of providing delicious, and convenient meal solutions to its valued customers.

Key benefits of Super Fresh Foods' shift to compostable containers include:

1. Environmental Responsibility: By choosing compostable containers, Super Fresh Foods reduces the reliance on plastic and minimizes its contribution to plastic pollution in oceans and landfills.
2. Reduced Carbon Footprint: Compostable materials have a significantly lower carbon footprint compared to traditional plastics, contributing to a cleaner and greener planet.
3. Supporting Local Agriculture: The compost created from these containers can be used to enrich local soils, supporting agriculture and sustainable food production.

4. Customer Convenience: Customers can now enjoy our delicious, chef-crafted meals guilt-free, knowing that the packaging is environmentally friendly.

"We are excited to take this important step toward a more sustainable future," said Super Fresh Foods' CEO, Benny Doro. "Our customers are not only looking for delicious and nutritious meals but also seeking ways to make environmentally responsible choices. By transitioning to compostable containers, we are providing them with a convenient option to align with their values."

The shift to compostable containers is part of Super Fresh Foods' ongoing commitment to sustainability, and it continues to explore innovative ways to reduce its environmental impact. By making this change, the Company hopes to inspire other businesses in the meal prep and delivery industry to follow suit and embrace eco-friendly practices.
