EINPresswire.com/ -- ACCELERATION THROUGH ACCESSIBILITY -- Dan Parker, a blind race car driver who holds the GUINNESS WORLD RECORDS® title for Fastest Speed for a Car Driven Blindfolded will be sharing his ground-breaking story at the Autobahn racetrack in Joliet, Illinois on October 20.

"I race to demonstrate what people with disabilities can do, raise expectations, and break barriers in mobility," said Dan Parker. "I am proud to have shown that a blind person can operate a vehicle safely, even at 200 miles per hour."

Due to a catastrophic racing accident in 2012, Dan's life changed forever. After months of recovery, he not only learned how to live as a blind man but also how to continue as a race car driver and machinist. Dan never quit pursuing his dream and worked to become the world's fastest blind man, earning the Guinness World Record.

"I race with no human assistance, but I appreciate support from the National Federation of the Blind and others to build awareness of ways we can increase accessibility for people," said Dan. "On Oct. 20 from 8:30 am until 2pm, I'll be at the Autobahn Country Club in Joliet sharing my story and displaying my car. Please join my mission to drive accessibility." An accessible world creates a more successful world. People with disabilities bring diverse perspectives, contributing to new ideas and innovations.
