COVID-19 Scenario Analysis :

- The pandemic has majorly hit the production of portable fans as the electrical component and raw materials from countries like China, Vietnam and India are not reaching the manufacturers and labor supply has been hit.
- The demand for portable fans has decreased, owing to the pandemic and portable fans being not so essential items that have less demand than before.
- The global market is expected to grow once the market regains back its old position.

Top Impacting Factors : Market Scenario Analysis, Trends, Drivers and Impact Analysis :

Rise in demand for portable devices and rapid urbanization in emerging economies are the factors that fuel demand of portable fans. Moreover, growth in outdoor sports activities, demand for ventilation to control humidity in houses and office rooms, and need for handy portable devices during traveling, camping, and hiking are the factors that drive the global portable fan market. However, major constraints of the market are frequent battery issues in rechargeable fans and less life of portable fans. Innovations in the industry are related to remote-controlled bladeless fans, which can be controlled via smartphones.

The global portable fan market trends are as follows :

New product launches to flourish the market :

Portable fan manufacturers are developing new products that are bladeless and are aerodynamically designed. Orient Electric has launched “Orient Bladeless” which are portable fans, are easy to clean, and work smoothly without noise and run up to 7.5 hours in a single charge. Moreover, it has an indulgent aura setting with multiple colors, remote-controlled operation, and energy-efficient portable fans.

Regional Insights :

The Asia-Pacific market is the highest growing market as the emerging economies of the region such as India, China, Indonesia, and Vietnam have a wide application of portable fan in homes, offices, and industries. Rising number of offices in small buildings and lack of ventilation has created a demand for portable fans that can control ventilation of small rooms. North America has the highest demand for residential uses and will grow considerably in the upcoming years.
