“We were excited to pack up Buddy Boxes again and provide funds to help make sure that children in this community have access to food and snacks when they go home over the weekend,” said Senior Vice President of the Mortgage Division at The Union Bank Co., Travis Vulich. “As a father of five, I know how important it is for kids to go to school with a focused mind, and food is a basic requirement for this,” he added.

The mission of the Family Mentor Foundation is to connect community resources and children who need them the most. The Buddy Box Program provides weekend food to Columbus area children in need. A Buddy Box is filled with kid-friendly, nutritious, nonperishable, individual sized-food items that are easy for children to eat or prepare on their own. These meals and snacks help sustain children on the weekends when they are not in school “Family Mentor Foundation's Buddy Box Program makes a real difference in the lives of food insecure children right here in our community, by ensuring they have access to nutritious food over the weekends, when school provided meals are not available,” stated Meegan Jesuele, Executive Director of Family Mentor Foundation.

The Union Bank team was eager to help pack Buddy Boxes, support Family Mentor Foundation's mission and is already planning the next volunteer opportunity. “It was such a rewarding bonding experience for our whole team to come together and give back,” said Alex Bates, Client Experience Manager at The Union Bank Co.
