Definition

The cannabis-infused edible products market refers to the segment of the cannabis industry that focuses on creating and selling food and beverage products containing cannabinoids, such as THC (tetrahydrocannabinol) and CBD (cannabidiol). These products are consumed orally and provide an alternative to traditional methods of cannabis consumption like smoking or vaping. The market has grown significantly in recent years, driven by changing regulations, evolving consumer preferences, and increased acceptance of cannabis for medicinal and recreational purposes.
