The Web Excellence Awards follow a strict evaluation process led by professionals from various fields. This guarantees a fair assessment based on factors like innovation, creativity, functionality, user experience, visual design, technique quality, performance, and overall impact.

LeoStep introduces a novel approach to the employee wellness program, transforming walking, running, and cycling into engaging adventures through a unique set of features:

- Gamification at its best: LeoStep transforms routine walks into thrilling activity, encouraging employees to collect virtual crystals placed throughout their city.
- Adaptive daily goals: LeoStep offers dynamic daily goals that adapt to users' progress, keeping their fitness journey engaging and achievable.

- Friendly competition for motivation: The app promotes friendly competition through a dynamic tournament table, motivating employees to achieve their fitness goals and fostering a sense of community.

- Fair play assurance: The app tracks user movement speed, establishes limits, and issues notifications when these limits are surpassed to ensure equitable gaming for all participants.

Oleksa Stelmakh, CEO of Leobit: "Winning the Web Excellence Award is another significant achievement for our team. We're absolutely thrilled that our mobile app, LeoStep, stood out as the winner due to its innovative approach and technical excellence. I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to all who contributed to bringing LeoStep to life and enhanced our employee wellness program. Congratulations to all our team with a well-deserved victory."

In addition to this esteemed recognition, LeoStep also proudly holds the esteemed title of the Best Fitness App by the Netty Awards.
