"She needs a major refit before we put her on display in the main museum, but visitors can see her through our Engineering doors while she is being repaired," reports Federation President Russ Haslage. "Enterprise has seen a lot of activity over the past few years and now she's home where she belongs. She'll get a complete restoration then be the center of attention at our new facility."

The museum pieces and sets attract fans to visit and then they learn about our organization and mission around the world to help those in need. The sale of merchandise helps pay our expenses."

must see.

The arrival of ENTERPRISE was the culmination of the opening of The Federation's new 10,000 square foot facility, Federation Headquarters in Sandusky Mall. Filled with museum pieces, video screens and so much more, the new home of the non-profit organization is a place that all fans

"The reason for the new facility is simple," explains Haslage. "The museum pieces and sets attract fans to visit and then they learn about our organization and our mission around the world to help those in need. The sale of merchandise helps pay our operational expenses.”

The museum is made of artifacts and exhibits collected over the years by the organization. From screen-worn costumes and other artifacts to the working replica of Kirk's captain's chair and now the USS ENTERPRISE, the new place is one all fans must see and then learn about the group's mission.
