

New Independent Veteran Goods and Services Access Study Launched by Buddytown Chief Data Scientist Kristen Thomasino

Data gathering about customer experiences matter to improve patient outcomes.

LOS ANGELES, CA, UNITED STATES, October 4, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Buddytown Consulting announced to Buddytown application power users and members of the Veterans Council Think Tank the news first about this nationwide study to gather independent party feedback about the VA Facilities goods and services access on Tuesday, October 2nd, 2023. This is part of a larger initiative with Veterans Council Think Tank member, Army Veteran, Kristal Kent to gather data for civil reform actions with the Veteran Voices for Fibromyalgia #teamfibro social good project.

General access will be available starting Wednesday. Thomasino Media learned this study will be available to veterans via the Buddytown application on Apple and Android marketplaces, download available <https://www.buddytown.com/technology>.

Kristen Thomasino, Founder and Chief Data Scientist commented, "This is an exciting milestone in this servant leadership social good project for veterans. There are areas we can learn from our veterans on where we can best improve our services and goods provided. The VA Hospital here in Los Angeles, California inspired this social good project for civil reform. I designed the study to help improve the customer experience for our veterans and maximize our tax dollars by ensuring our teams at the facilities can get more constructive feedback. Trust must be built between all parties and making sure that there are mechanisms that enable communication and improvement have a historical success rate of creating positive outcomes for many organizations. Why not here at the VA Hospital in Los Angeles and other VA facilities across the United States?"
