

The Sullivan Group Partners with Augmedix to Reduce Documentation Burden and Improve Patient Safety

DENVER, CO, USA, October 5, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Today, The Sullivan Group \(TSG\), a leading authority in patient safety and medical error reduction, announced a plan for a strategic partnership with Augmedix (NASDAQ: AUGX), a healthcare technology company that delivers industry-leading, ambient medical documentation and data solutions, to integrate TSG's Clinical Decision Support System (CDSS) into Augmedix's platform, which serves clinicians in both emergency departments and ambulatory clinics.

TSG's CDSS is designed to help reduce providers' exposure to diagnosis-related medical errors and facilitate clinical documentation that reflects high-quality, evidence-based medicine. Expected to be available as an optional add-on for Augmedix customers in 2024, the newly-modified CDSS will leverage TSG's proprietary clinical content and decision support algorithms, accommodate synchronous and asynchronous documentation workflows and will aim to help EDs achieve a high level of compliance with quality and patient safety measures.

"We are excited to work with Augmedix. Not only do we share a common vision for emergency medicine documentation, but we also share a client base with Augmedix that makes our path forward impactful for patients and providers," said Dan Sullivan, M.D., J.D., Founder and CEO of The Sullivan Group. "Their commitment to satisfy many different documentation workflows is refreshing, and we look forward to leveraging their deep expertise in artificial intelligence and large language models."

TSG's products and services drive greater alignment in clinical practice patterns to improve patient safety and have been shown to reduce diagnosis-related malpractice claims by up to 70%.

"Augmedix and The Sullivan Group are well-positioned to focus on improving patient safety and reducing diagnosis-related medical errors," shared Ian Shakil, Founder, Director, and Chief Strategy Officer of Augmedix. "This partnership highlights Augmedix's strategy to leverage its real-time, bi-directional communication channel at the point of care to deliver critical information when and where it is most needed and best applied. Together, TSG and Augmedix can improve the burnout and medical documentation burden faced by ED clinicians, while driving our joint mission of improving patient access and safety."

This partnership is expected to allow Augmedix and TSG to impact patient outcomes for Augmedix customers in the acute care setting. The parties have agreed in principle on a strategic partnership and are working towards the completion of a definitive agreement regarding the partnership. Together, Augmedix and TSG can work with leading hospital systems to develop high-quality, trusted solutions that reduce errors in emergency medicine.
